

LUND
UNIVERSITY

Department of Political Science

6/26/2020

Web registration for courses at the Department of Political Science

Please note that attendance at introductory meetings and introductory lectures are compulsory. If you fail to attend without contacting the department beforehand, you will lose your place in the course even if you have registered for the course online.

Pre-conditions

To be able use the web registration form you must be unconditionally accepted to the course. Web registration usually opens one week before the course starts and must be completed no later than course start. NB! If you do not register for the course or courses that you have been accepted to on time, according to the welcome letter, you will lose your place and it will be offered to another applicant.

Web registration at the student portal with your student account

Please note that you need a Student account to be able to register for courses in the Student Portal. Every student is issued a Student account once accepted to Lund University. Your account will be generated a few days after you have received your second and final Notification of Selection Results. Instructions on how to activate your Student account are sent to the email address at you submitted when you applied for your studies.

If you have problems with your student account please contact the support at Lund University, please find more information here,

<http://www.lunduniversity.lu.se/current-students/new-students/your-student-account>

Log on and register for courses at the Student Portal's website <http://student.lu.se>

Experiencing problems for a course on undergraduate level?

If you are accepted on condition for a course on undergraduate level you can't use the web registration. You are welcome to register at the compulsory course introduction or introductory meeting. Please see welcome letter for more information on the introductory meeting and specific course requirements.

Experiencing problems for a course on graduate level?

If you are accepted on condition for a course on a graduate level you can't use the web registration. Please visit the academic advisors at the department for eligibility check and course registration no later than the day of course start. Please see welcome letter for more information on specific course requirements.

Please see the following screen shoots on how to register for a course.